PATROLMAN CASSIDY'S FUNERAL; CLOSE OF A NOTABLE CAREER.

Fourth District Policeman, on the Force Thirty-Two Years, Made a Record for Arresting Desperate Negroes.

PATROLMAN PATRICK CASSIDY, Fourth District policeman, who will be buried this morning.

The funeral of Patrolman Patrick Cassidy, who for nearly thirty-three years was one of the most efficient officers on the St. Louis police force, will take place this morning at 9 o'clock from his late residence, No. 3700 Lincoln avenue, to St. Teresa's Church. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

An escort of sixteen patrolmen from the Fourth District, under the command of Sergeant Matthew Cummins, will attend the funeral. The patrolmen, who are all old comrades of the dead patrolman, will be Michael Bree, John Reagan and Thomas Dowling of the Fourth District; Patrick Shea and Richard Walker of the Seventh District, and Andrew Taylor, James Johnson and Martin Ford of the Ninth District.

Patrolman Cassidy was born in Ireland in 1851. When a boy he came to America. He was appointed to the police force on March 8, 1871. Since that time he has served almost continuously in the Fourth District, which was known as the "Bloody Third" when he was assigned there.

Soon after entering the police force Cassidy showed great efficiency in handling negro cases. Since that time he has been credited with being the best detective on the force for handling negro criminals.

After he made known his ability to handle negro cases he was assigned to the hardest beats in the Fourth District. Among the beats which he had were those known as "Clabber Alley," "Wild Cat Chute" and "Castle Thunder."

Cassidy first gained distinction in 1872. He secured the convictions of many desperate negroes. Because of this he became very unpopular with the negro element and they decided to put him "off watch."

A negro from Memphis was hired to kill him. One night he met Cassidy in "Clabber Alley." After a fight, in which the negro slashed Cassidy's face a dozen places with a razor, he was arrested. Cassidy's uniform was cut into shreds. Cassidy was seriously wounded. He hovered between life and death for months before recovering. The negro was sentenced to twenty years in the Penitentiary.

Two years later a negro wanted for murder escaped to Illinois. Cassidy learned that the negro was in a coal mine in Illinois. He asked permission to go after the murderer. At the mine he was told that he was taking his life in his hands if he went into the mine, there being over 500 negroes employed there.

Cassidy went alone into the mine, and within half an hour returned with his man. The negro got a life sentence.

In 1874 a Quartermaster at Jefferson Barracks was robbed by a negro of a large sum of money and personal effects. Cassidy, who was on duty, went to the barracks and arrested the thief. He was sentenced to prison.

The next day Cassidy went to Jefferson Barracks and arrested a negro soldier from a line of over 1,000 negro soldiers. Old comrades, in speaking of him, say he was one of the most respected officers on the force and was always conscientious in duty. He leaves a wife and six children.

PASTOR INVEIGHS AGAINST "PERILS OF THE STREET."

Wants Ordinances to Stop Wanton Destruction of Children's Lives in New York.

URGES REDUCTION OF DINGLEY RATES.

Colonel Edwards Submits Report on Philippines—Says Islands Exhibit It Will Be Feature of Fair.

New York, Nov. 22.—From his pulpit in the Fifth Avenue Collegiate Church, the Reverend Doctor Donald Sage Mackay to-day made an effective plea for the passing of city ordinances to lessen the street perils which have cost so many human lives in this city.

The preacher recalled the fact that in the last few years more than 400 little children have lost their lives in street accidents in New York City. He laid the blame for many casualties at the door of incompetent drivers.

"How do we come to this?" asked Doctor Mackay. "We cannot be indifferent to the catastrophes which have overtaken us in this city during the last year."

Doctor Mackay preached his sermon on "The Perils of the Street" with the following text:

"The chariots shall rage in the streets, they shall jostle one another in the broadway; they shall seem like torches; they shall run like lightning."

"If these words are not a description of the streets of modern New York, what are they?" asked the preacher.

"Where did Nahum, brought up in the quiet, pastoral land of Samaria, get such a picture? How did he come to see things like this? He certainly never saw anything like what he describes here in the narrow, tortuous lanes of New York."

"I am told that more than 400 little children, within the last half-dozen years, have been ground to death beneath the trolley wheels, and that more than 1,000 have been brought to death beneath the wheels of the street cars."

"I am bringing no charges against any corporation, for I have no proof to substantiate such charges. I am only pointing out the fact that the highways of a city have no adequate means of protection of helpless children."

"We are to remember, moreover, that these figures represent deaths; no account is taken of the vast number of injured and permanently disabled persons who suffer beneath the grinding wheels of modern traffic. For instance, the number of street accidents reported at police headquarters for the two weeks ending November 9 were 125. In other words, more than twice as many persons were killed and wounded on the thoroughfares of New York last week as were killed or wounded by all the railway accidents throughout the country."

PULLMAN SUDDENLY EXPIRES AFTER SERMON.

Brother of Car Builder Made Unusually Eloquent Address Just Before Death.

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 22.—After preaching a sermon of unusual vigor and eloquence, the Reverend James Minto Pullman, D. D., pastor of the First Universalist Church in this city, and a clergyman widely known in that denomination, died suddenly of apoplexy at his home to-day.

At the conclusion of the morning service he said that a feeling of illness had almost overcome him in the pulpit. When he reached home a messenger was dispatched for a physician, who arrived just as Mr. Pullman fell dead on the stairs leading to his chamber.

The Reverend Mr. Pullman was a brother of George M. Pullman, the millionaire parlor car builder. He was 72 years old and a native of Portland, N. H. His studies for the ministry were completed at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y., from which he was graduated in 1850.

He came to Lynn in 1856. A widow and a son survive.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Washington, Nov. 22.—If the national administration has its way about it there will be no financial or currency legislation by Congress during the approaching regular session. The President sees no pressing necessity for a revival of a discussion along that line and his view is supported by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Furthermore, leading members of Congress share the same conviction. That the currency system of the Government could not be improved somewhat, but the judgment of these men is that it is now sound, and that any immediate action is premature.

The administration, as well as some of the Republican leaders in the House and Senate, are not inclined to encourage a currency reform agitation on the eve of a national political campaign.

Secretary of the Treasury Shaw has completed nearly every portion of his annual report, including some of the recommendations he proposes making to Congress. But his suggestions in regard to the currency question will be exceedingly meager if there are any more at all.

After giving the subject careful consideration, Mr. Shaw has come to the conclusion that the only criticism to be made of the Government's currency system relates to its want of elasticity. He believes that the Government should issue a volume of circulation may be increased whenever there is a pressing demand for it and which may be retired as soon as the necessity ceases to exist.

The Secretary is of the opinion that to meet emergency demands for money, national banks might be permitted, with the consent of the Comptroller of the Currency, to issue a volume of circulating notes equal to 50 per cent of their bonded security circulation at a tax of 5 or 6 per cent, which could be retired at the discretion of the Comptroller upon the deposit of an equal amount of lawful money with the Treasury.

He does not assert that this would be the only method of providing a more elastic currency, but it is the one which appeals to him as being the safest as well as the most convenient.

OKLAHOMA'S POPULATION PLACED AT 650,000.

Governor Ferguson Estimates the Actual Value of Taxable Property at $400,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Governor Ferguson of Oklahoma, in his annual report to the Secretary of the Interior estimates the present population of the Territory at 650,000 and the actual value of taxable property at practically $400,000,000, although only $100,000,000 is returned by the assessors for 1902.

The territorial indebtedness is $461,706. The report says that speculators and promoters have harassed many of the lessees of lands in Kiowa, Comanche and Caddo counties by prospecting for mineral, cutting timber and attempting to locate mining claims on school lands, but the State Board has uniformly declined to recognize the mining laws applied to these reserved lands and have treated all prospectors and locators as intruders.

Rules have been amended to prevent the hypothecating of leases as security for loans and their transfer in blank and in the future all leases and transfers must be executed before a notary public or other officers empowered to take acknowledgments, as in real estate transfers.
